

Ivory Coast Dedicated Distribution Box Manufacturer

Article Overview

Groupe Cahors provides specialized distribution boxes for electrical networks in Ivory Coast, supported by local distributors like CDFCI SARL and BOX AFRICA.

Key Manufacturers and Suppliers

Groupe Cahors offers high-quality distribution boxes designed for public electricity distribution. Their products feature glass fibre reinforced polyester enclosures, corrosion and UV resistance, and IK10 mechanical protection, making them suitable for residential and commercial installations. The boxes support three-phase electrical distribution with network connections ranging from 50 to 240 mm² and multiple bypass options up to 35 mm², ensuring flexibility for local network requirements. CDFCI SARL is a local distributor in Ivory Coast that markets and distributes a wide range of products, including machinery, batteries, and electrical equipment. They provide technical consulting, after-sales service, and product testing, which can be valuable for sourcing and maintaining distribution boxes locally. BOX AFRICA, based in Abidjan, is another regional company that can serve as a distributor or partner for electrical infrastructure products, including distribution boxes. While specific product details are limited, they are listed in business directories as a supplier in the Ivory Coast market.

Additional Considerations

For companies seeking warehousing and distribution support, Maersk Ivory Coast offers logistics services including storage, packaging, and distribution, which can facilitate the delivery and installation of distribution boxes across the country. This is particularly useful for large-scale electrical projects requiring timely supply chain management.

Summary

For dedicated distribution boxes in Ivory Coast, Groupe Cahors is a primary manufacturer with robust, corrosion-resistant products suitable for electrical networks. Local distributors like CDFCI SARL and BOX AFRICA provide access to these products along with technical support and after-sales services. Companies can also leverage logistics providers such as Maersk to optimize storage and distribution across Ivory Coast.
