

Article Overview

Cable tray prices typically range from $2 to $25 per meter, depending on material, type, size, and finish.

Price Ranges by Material and Type

- o Galvanized Steel: Most common, balancing durability and cost, generally mid-range in price.
- o Stainless Steel: Corrosion-resistant, ideal for harsh environments, more expensive than galvanized steel.
- o Aluminum: Lightweight and rust-proof, slightly pricier than steel but easier to handle.
- o Plastic/PVC: Budget-friendly, suitable for light loads and indoor use, less durable for heavy-duty applications. Tray types also affect cost:
- o Ladder trays: Strong support for heavy cables, higher cost.
- o Wire mesh trays: Flexible, lightweight, and cheaper, ideal for lighter wiring.
- o Perforated trays: Moderate cost, good for ventilation and cable management.

Factors Influencing Price

- o Coating/Finish: Hot-dipped galvanization (HDG) is more durable and expensive; pre-galvanized is cheaper but less resistant to corrosion. Powder coatings add protection and color options.
- o Size and Width: Larger trays cost more in material but may reduce cost per cable.
- o Supplier and Order Quantity: Bulk orders often reduce per-meter cost.
- o Accessories: Couplers, bends, lids, and risers add to total cost.
- o Shipping and Installation: Heavier trays increase transport costs; labor and installation complexity also affect final pricing.

Typical Market Prices

- o Low-end: $2-$5 per meter for lightweight wire mesh or PVC trays.
- o Mid-range: $6-$15 per meter for galvanized steel or perforated trays.
- o High-end: $16-$25 per meter for stainless steel or heavy-duty ladder trays with HDG finish.
