They provide durable enclosures for industrial power distribution .

Additional Considerations

- o Certifications: Ensure the boxes are ATEX, IECEx, or NEMA certified for your specific hazardous zone.
- o Material: Aluminum, steel, or stainless steel options are available depending on environmental conditions.
- o Customization: Some suppliers offer custom sizes, mounting options, and terminal configurations.
- o Ordering: Many suppliers provide online catalogs, backorder options, and direct sales support for technical specifications. By contacting these suppliers, you can obtain explosion-proof electrical distribution boxes suitable for industrial, mining, oil and gas, or chemical environments anywhere in Canada.
